Crisp explain why he voted against immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus and applauded him sympathetically when he asserted that "a bad tax bill" passed by the last congress "has, at least, served the very good purpose of making this nation tax-conscious."

Basil Stockbridge, a former department commander of the Legion, made it clear in presenting Congressman Crisp that the Legion is non-political "to the extent that it avoids the appearance of advancing the fortunes of any man or party."

One of the benefits of the bill is that it has made the people tax conscious. Formerly, a good congressman was one who raided the pork barrel. Now our citizens are seeing that when the congressman brings home the bacon they are paying the bill."

Score of Women Attend.

More than a score of women prominent in the state's civic affairs attended the luncheon. Speaking particularly, however, to the ex-service men Congressman Crisp said:

"Payment of the remainder of the bonus due in 1945 was urged, at the past session, by a number of congressmen. They proposed that it come out of the treasury. I regarded that proposal unthinkable, since it would necessitate the levy of an additional $2,000,000,000 in taxes after congress had been forced to levy $1,118,000,000 to balance the budget and preserve the credit of the nation.

"Then they advanced another plan—to print money. If I believed the government could run a money printing press and keep this government running at the same time I wouldn't have voted for the tax bill. Germany tried it and you saw her marks drop to 25 cents per million."

Those who think so cited these three developments:

(1) Stanley Baldwin's statement yesterday in which he asked the dominions to remember their favorable trade balance with the United Kingdom when they asked for further advantages, and said that Great Britain expects to keep her tariffs low enough so that her industries can compete on a fair basis with those of the dominions.

Nationalist Feelings.

(2) The revelation of strong nationalist feeling by India, south Africa and the Irish Free State, none of which will permit the conference to forget that they consider themselves not integral parts of the British empire but independent nations affiliated with it.

(3) The continuing progress of negotiations looking toward bi-lateral trade agreements as contrasted with official silence on the status of the empire unity project.

Malcolm MacDonald, son of the British premier, who is here as a spokesman to the British press, said today that the United Kingdom has made no definite decision on any dominion request for preference.

The work of the conference apparantly has been toward private trade

These bi-lateral negotiations have been of such character that they would be amenable to subsequent empire unity, but they are not considered to fit in with any workable scheme of inter-imperial trade.

No Tariffs Seen.

The agreements thus far do not suggest protective tariffs against goods coming from other countries of the commonwealth, and in that respect they are considered to co-incide with the principle with the freest possible exchange of goods between the various parts of the empire.

But they are not interpreted as equalizing the irremovable natural disadvantages which one empire nation might experience in the markets of another.

Canada has already trade and trade and the continues, the production of this year's crop would exceed predictions and perhaps put the price down. That is why it is rather hard to tell about cotton.

Canada has already trade agree-ments with Australia and New Zealand and is expected to complete ne-gotiations with South Africa within

American observers heard today that the dominion also was negotiating an agreement with the United Kingdom concerning cattle to be fattened for the British market. This was regarded as a result of the tariff war between Great Britain and the Irish Free State by reason of which the British supply of fresh beef from southern Ireland may be threatened. It was suggested that the United Kingdom might relax the present stringent inspection of Canadian cattle but that if the Irish difficulty should pass, Canadian cattlemen would have no more advantage than Free State producers in the British market. India, with 300,000,000 of the total 450,000,000 population of the British commonwealth of nations, is still regarded as a powerful factor in the American observers heard today

Because of India's peculiar political status, no direct pressure has been put upon her delegation to bring her into the empire trade combination.

Sir Atul Chatterjee, leader of the Indian delegation, has expressed his willingness to co-operate with the empire nations but he pointed out that India has to remember that 70 per cent of her trade is with countries outside the empire.

As the situation stood today there had been no progress toward solving the wheat problem and that of other surplus crops, and the United Kingdom had found no definite answer to one of her big difficulties, discovery of a wider outlet for her steel and textiles.

It extiles.

On a profitable agreement within the empire for disposal of steel and textile products especially depends the British attitude toward dominion requests for preference in markets of the United Kingdom.

The British delegation was reported to have studied 1,000 of the 8,000 items submitted by Canada as a basis for trade agreements, and to have listened to suggestions for a sliding import duty on Russian lumber, perhaps to take the form of a tax on the difference between the sales price and the cost of production.

Many things are being done to increase the demand for cotton since the advent of substitutes for it. Men's suits are being made of cotton; women's style centers have approved it; other uses are being found to gradually increase the demand for cotton since the demand for cotton since the recease in product of it. Lumbermen's Associaton, said Canada could produce ten times as much lumber as Great Britain is now taking from the dominion and possibly could supply one-third of her demands instead of the present 2 1-2 per cent.

In view of reports that Canada would make some concessions to the United Kingdom on cotton and wool textiles, he urged that lumber, about the only major product the dominion has left, be selected for preferential treatment.

A subcommittee of the Canadian cabinet, headed by Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes, today examined the Canadian tariff item by item to select articles on which Britain might be given preference. Special attention was paid to the rates on cotton, weolens and steel.

It was reported that Britain already had agreed in principle to give a preference on empire wheat. At present all wheat—empire and foreign—enters the British market free of duty. The British delegates also were reported favorably inclined toward allowing a preference on meats and other national products providing they received enough in return.

A month ago cotton hit the lowest price in its history when it sold for 4.91 cents a pound. Then it began to climb slowly and around the first of July was slightly over 6 cents. It closed today at 5.95, indicating that the rise is not a flash but fairly stendy.

The rise, so far, has not greatly benefited the growers, of whom there are about 2,000,000. Most of their 1931 crop has passed out of their hands to consumers. exporters and shippers. It is estimated that perhaps 3,000,000 bales are being held by growers. growers. Nor can farmers make money until their cotton goes well over 6 cents.

G cents.

On Future Basis.

Cotton is bought and sold on the same future basis as grain and so the rise in prices affects the estimated 12,000,000 bales now growing in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas. This is the south's cotton belt and produces most of the American cotton, although some is grown in New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Whether this rise will continue and bring cotton back to a price that will Whether this rise will continue and bring cotton back to a price that will mean profit for the farmer is dependent largely on the weather. Cotton grows better in a hot climate, and needs occasional rain. With few exceptions the south is experiencing good cotton growing weather, although some sections report a need for rain. In its present stage, a continued drouth would cause deterioration of the plant, say the experts. Should heavy rains set in, the boll weevil, which had a mild winter to enable it to hibernate and be ready for action this year, would get in his work. That would help reduce the surplus, the cotton men figure, and bring a rise in prices.

It is estimated that there will be a production decrease this year of about 5,000,000 bales from last year's figure, which was almost 17,000,000 ure, which was almost 17,000,000 bales.

When cotton went to 4.91 last month it was the record low price. In 1898 it went to 5.06, It was highest in 1920-21 when it got to 43,75 cents a pound. The next year the boll-weevil cut production down to a little more than 7,000,000 bales. The high price, afternath of the war, tumbled in a few months from 40 to 10 cents. Use of rayon, silk, wool, mohair and jute in place of cotton served to send cotton lower.

A majority of southern farmers had depended on cotton to buy their food, equipment and everything else. When cotton touched 7. 6 and 5 cents they began to learn about cotton.

They have learned, a number of them, to raise their own foodstuffs, and everything that they can on the farm, raising cotton to obtain what cash they can—for fertilizer and

UP TO ALABAMA.

At a joint meeting held some months ago in Anniston between the highway authorities of Georgia and Alabama plans were completed for a all-paved airline highway between Atlanta and Birmingham, via Villa Rica, Bremen and Anniston.

The Georgia highway commissioners upon their return to Atlanta started work at once on the part of the agreement they had undertaken. The road from Atlanta to Villa Rica is now paved; contract will be let in August for the paving of the Villa Rica-Bremen link, which has already been graded, and the few remaining miles between Bremen and the state line will be taken care of promptly.

We Learn.

A group of businessmen in America sent me a letter asking to tell them wherein, in my estimation, we can learn from Russia of the success of the soviet plan of industrialization may be of benefit to American business. The secret of Russia's progress lies in the fact that they have a rational plan. The state regulates everything, consequently there is no overlapping and competition in this respect we can learn nothing from Russia unless we changed our entire economic system. For this reason there can be no comparison between American and Russian conditions. As far as development is contended to the villa Rica Bremen link, which has already been graded, and the few remaining miles between Bremen and the state line will be taken care of promptly.

as the hub from and to which the rates will apply.

It is significant that such a movement in the interest of the shippers should be instigated by this southern company whose stockholders are the public of the south and who spend every dollar earned from the south in this same section.

It is explained that the new low rates will apply on over 300 different items, including merchandise, perishables, textile products, and many other commodities and will closely follow existing railroad less than carload freight rates. This means that fast passenger train express service, including pick-up and delivery service, is now available for freight traffic in this section at a minimum charge.

REDUCTIONS APPRECIATED. Confidence is expressed by officials of the Southeastern that the reduced rates will be received favorably by the shipping public and that the move will result in the rail carriers reclaiming a material volume of traffic that has been lost to other modes of transportation.

FILLING THE GAP.

While the crop reporting service makes no reference to the numerous minor crops, such as berries, a great variety of fruits, not to mention the enormous amount of live stock, poultry, butter and eggs and other commodities that bring farmers millions of dollars annually, these commodities are steadily moving into consuming markets. They are furnishing farmers with some ready cash, which in turn is passing through regular business channels throughout the state, pending harvest and movement of the major crops, such as cotton, corn. peamajor crops, such as cotton, corn. pea

Reported condition of corn is 79 per cent of normal, as compared with 59 per cent one year ago. Acreage is estimated at 3,855,000 acres, or an increase of 5 per cent over the 1931 harvested acreage of 3,672,000 acres. Indicated production is placed at 46,260,000 bushels against 36,720,000 bushels estimated harvested last year—an increase of about 26 per cent.

SMALL GRAIN.

Acreage of tobacco has been cut nearly two-thirds from last year. Early season plans were for a substantial decrease and fewer seedbeds were sown. The early March freeze, together with ravages of the blue mold, were responsible for a plant shortage, which resulted in acreage being lowered to about 36 per cent of 1931. With an indicated yield of 550 pounds, production upon the 30,000 acres should approximate about 16,500,000 pounds as compared with 59,640,000 pounds harvested last season, or a decrease of 72 per cent.

Wheat acreage harvested of 69,000 shows a gain of about 40 per cent over last season but a lower yield per acre resulted in practically the same production—635,000 bushels against 637,000 bushels in 1931. Oats, with an increase of 14 per cent in acreage over last year, has produced an estimated crop of 6,993,000 bushels compared with 7,968,000 bushels. This estimated production is 12 per cent below the past season due to lower current yields per acre.

representatives, were moved down with seeming ease Friday

What makes it all the more painful to our side is the fact that it was done by those two French veterans who have been claiming they were all burned out and through as Davis cup contenders. Henri Cochet was supposed to be ill and not well at all. Jean Borotra has been just a fair sort of tennis player all season. Yet it was he who eliminated the American and British champion, Ellsworth Vines.

The two French stars are two of the "Three Musketeers" of French tennis. Rene LaCoste was the third. They swept aside William Tilden II and his Davis cup crew in 1927. Since then the American tennis players have been just a lot of freshmen playing the varsity.

Vines was conceded a great chance to bring back a

Vines was conceded a great chance to bring back a part of American tennis prestige. He had worked for a year on his chop stroke, seeking to become as versatile as Bill Tilden, the doyen of them all.

Vines is another of these prominent figures in sport who began his career with his favorite sport implement as a teething ring. The story is that Vines first waved a tennis racquet when he was at the tender age of three. When he was eight years old he was playing regularly. Not since Tilden gave the U. S. L. T. A. a final slap and retired to professional ranks, has a player come along with Vines' brilliance.

The United States is favored to win the doubles but the singles matches on Sunday do not look so good. It appears that our return to tennis supremacy must be just around the corner in 1933.

Ties, three games to one. The leaded to 7 1-2 games.

For six innings, Cleveland couldn't get a run off Vernon Gomez while the Yankees nicked Clint Brown for three hits and a 2-0 lead in the fourth. In the seventh, however, the Tribe broke loose, Bill Cissell opened with a single and Willie Kamm clouted a triple for the first run. Then with two out and two on base, Averill drove high over the right-field wall to finish a four-run rally.

The Yanka staged a one-man attempt to recover in the ninth when Rabe Ruth, the first man up, hit over the same barrier for his twenty-ninth homer of the season and his third in two days, but Brown set the next three men down in order and recorded his eleventh victory of the season. He gave only six hits to the league leaders.

Gomez, the Yanke ace, was charg-

NO LOVE LOST.

There is no love lost between the American and French tennis players and fans. The fans in France seem to have an even more vociferous cheer than the national cheer of America, which is "Boo! Booooo!"

When the Frenchmen saw what they believed to be a questionable point go in favor of an American in the recent matches with Germany, they gave quite a demonstration and the French word for "Boo" was given quite a play.

They do not like us because we have won for so long and so often in so many things. It has been suggested that the Olympic games are held every four years because it requires that length of time for the acrimony aroused by the Olympic games to subside enough to permit the holding of another meeting.

The tennis players might adopt the same plan. It is not pleasant to take a licking. There is said to be some aesthetic, soul-cleansing benefit to be derived from defeat. But it is difficult to arrive at. It may be a good idea to retire from tennis until Borotra and Cochet have reached a ripe old age. Unless, of course, there is some manner by which Bill Tilden might turn back the wheels of time to about 1925.

If they are going to lick us they should not boo us even if we did give to the world the custom of giving 15 boos. The World Court should do something about it. Or do we belong to that lodge?

Senators pounded three Brownie pitchers today as Washington took the final game of the series with St. Louis, 10 to 6. to that lodge?

PAAVO NURMI.

It is too bad that Paavo Nurmi wasn't permitted to run in the Olympic games. It is very easy to say this, speaking from an entire lack of knowledge of the facts in his case which were very vague, having to do with too much expense money on a Harris.rt trip through Germany.

The general impression seems to be that the world forces were looking for an out because Nurmi was all set to run the legs off the best runners from the other nations. And so far as I know Finland hasn't enough fleet to go around giving demonstrations in friendly ugh airplanes to send over a flight.

We will wait to see just how purified amateur sport is made by the Nurmi decision.

Spiller Is Host

At Austell 'Cue

R. J. Spiller, one of the Atlanta baseball directors, entertained about 25 friends at a barbecue last night at his golf course and pienie grounds at Lithia Springs, near Austell. A delightful dinner of barbecued chicken and pork was served together with other foods.

Representatives of the sports departments of the three newspapers and of the baseball office attended. Mrs. J. Spiller and Mrs. Johnny Suggs served the food at a long table in front of the clubhouse.

gigantic sporting spectacle of all times. GREAT SHOW. The crowds will see nation against nation, competing for honors in the games as a whole They'll watch individuals striving for personal glory. Man-against-man fights down the stretch, hand-to-hand combat with sabre and boxing gloves, the struggle to vault with a pole higher than man has yet gone, heart-stopping poundings down the rowing lanes—these and scores of other thrills are ready. The whole Olympic program is so vast, involves so many nations, and is spread over so many miles of territory that it is impossible to select one individual event as the single potential thrill of the games. From the Pacific coast viewpoint, the greatest contest will be the 400-meter duel between Ben Eastman, of Stanford, and Bill Carr, Penn flyer, twice conqueror of the coast speed ster. 100-METER BATTLE. 100-METER BATTLE.

Scarcely less intriguing is the battle in the 100-meter which offers as top competitors America's big three, Ralph Metcalfe, gigantic Marquette negro; Eddie Tolan, also a negro, from Michigan, and George Simpson, Ohio State's pride, against a brilliant field which includes the world's record holder, Percy Williams, of Canada.

But these are only two and there would be no ending if one tried to list all of the sensations promised.

The opening ceremonial in Olympic stadium, and a session of weight-lifting preliminaries in the evening will complete tomorrow's attraction.

The big show starts Sunday when several track and field events, notably preliminary heats of the 100-meter are held.

The athletic side of the show tonight, however, was lost sight of behind a maze of official meetings and social events.

The principal meeting occurred this morning when the International Amateur Athletic Federation decided, apparently definitely, to keep Paavo Nurmi, Finnish distance ace, beyond the pale of amateur athletics, meantime awarding him new world amateur records in the two-mile, six-mile and 20,000-meter events.

Americans have a right to feel proud of the way Los Angeles, southern California and the entire state have combined to set up a marvelous organization, install unsurpassed equipment and otherwise demonstrate to the delegations of 40 visiting nations that the United States welcomes them as friendly rivals.

This great testimony to athletic interest, to civic and national pride seems to me at this time especially appropriate. The extent of world representation, in these times, is little short of astonishing. Nations of the world have gone out of their way to make a real showing and emphasize the importance in which sport is held. It is an important contribution toward re-establishing world balance and proof of the underlying spirit of comradeship.

PARIS, July 29.—(UP)—America's hopes for regaining the Davis cup, most famed trophy in tennis, were all but shattered today when those two veteran musketeers, Jean Borotra and Henri Cochet, made a clean sweep of the opening day's play.

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—(P)
The United States has a good chance to win three, possibly four, of the seven Olympic championships in catch as-catch-can wrestling.

Coaches agree with me that Bobby Pearce, one of the smartest grapplers in the games, stands an excellent chance to win the bantamweight or 123-pound title for us. Jack Van Bebber, in the 158-pound class; Peter Mehringer, 191 pounds, and Jack Riley, the Northwestern football star, in the unlimited heavyweight class, also are strong contenders.

Four years ago the American wrestlers swept through to the finals, only to lose all championship matches through inexperience with "rolling falls," which count in Olympic competition. They concentrated too much on "leg wrestling." Atlanta Hits Behind Messenger To Beat Travelers, 9 to 4.

Andy Messenger stood the Travelers on their ears for six innings tonight, then he eased up somewhat, but still was good enough to turn in a 9-to-4 victory in the first game of the aeries. It was the Crackers' fifth straight victory. Charley Barnabe started for Little Rock, but was knocked loose from his job in the fifth and Earle Brown finished in good shape.

The Travelers didn't get a hit until the fifth and then Glass got one of the scratch variety. In the sixth, a run materialized from a couple of bunts and Griffin's looping single to left. Messenger gave up two hits and two passes in the seventh and two more runners crossed the plate, Bouzas' single, Chatham's errors, Nicolai's hit and McHenry's error brought in the final Little Rock run in the ninth.

The Crackers scored their first run in the opening round on singles by Goff, Welch and Cummings.

Only one hit was used in the scoring of three Atlanta runs in the third. That was Goff's single. Passes to Chatham and Welch, flies to Gerken by Cummings and McHenry and Nicolai's wild throw figured in the outpourst.

Brown had taken Barnabe's place with Chapman at bat and he got the side out with no further damage, although Eisemann singled and Chatham walked. Brown set the opposition down in order in the sixth. A pass to Eisemann in the seventh and Goff's single in the eighth were the only breaks in the monotony of those rounds.

INDEPENDENT BARRED FROM FLORIDA RACE

Voters Must Write Names on Ballots, Landis Rules.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 29.-(AP)-The only way an independent candidate for county, state or national office can get his name on the general election ballot in Florida is to have it written there by the voters on election day, Attorney-General Cary D. Landis today advised an inquirer.

"The county commissioners," Landis' opinion stated, "cannot place the name of any person on the general election ballot as a candidate for state or county office, unless such person was nominated in a democratic or republican primary election. "If the democratic or republican parties fail to furnish a nominee for an office, both parties waive or forfeit their right to have a nominee's name printed on the general election name printed on the general election ballot.

"The only instance where the democratic executive committee or the republican executive committee can nominate a candidate for a state or county office is where the nominee, between the primary and the general election, dies or is disqualified for some other reason.

"What has been said above does not apply to any political party except the two parties named. Other political parties are not required under the laws of the state of Florida to nominate their candidates in a primary; therefore, such other parties could nominate their candidates by their respective committees.

The Daughters of America differs from most other organizations in the manner of caring for its orphans. Instead of spending enormous sums building homes for the children of their deceased members, they permit them to live in the home of some member of the family and contribute a certain amount each month to their support, thus enabling them to have that home influence so necessary to the happiness of a child.

The orphans' fund has been particularly emphasized in the work of the councils in district No. 3, and the members have responded remarkably well and will have a splendid revened.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

A little while ago I read this sentence in a novel: "These were the thoughts of his childhood," This sentence contains a truth that is sweet to many parents, to others it is a stunning blow. For after all is said and done it is the parents who direct the thinking of their children and in consequence all the memories of childhood that persist through the years are connected with those parents. The loves of childhood are credited to the parents. Fathers and mothers, can't you realize before it is too late that the contributions, material and physical, that you make to the lives of your little ones constitute the capital on which they do business as long as they live? It is a capital the quality of which they cannot change, though of which they cannot change, though they increase its quantity a hundred-fold.

Health, a possession that may be inherited, but one that can also be cultivated, is one component part of this coveted capital. Happiness, that resolves itself into an attitude toward life, is another. Depending in large measure on these two is a third, the ability to harmonize one's life with the lives of others that move in the same milieu.

The parents that lack loving sympathy and understanding may secure good health to their children, provided the children are born normal and provided that they happen to no accident. Simply enough this is true because health has to do with the body, not with the spirit. But the other things cannot be provided unless the parents are able to establish sympathetic relations with their young. Any mother and father can furnish well-fitting shoes, warm clothes, suitable food, properly balanced, and regularly supplied. It only requires a little money and common sense to insure good health after this fashion. But you can't teach children the art of happiness or the science of adjustment to environment and to circumstances with anything less than a sympathetic understanding of their joys and sorrows, of their problems in relation to their friends and associates, and of their intellectual difficulties. In other words, unless you can get the child's viewpoint, which is always at variance with the adult's viewpoint, you cannot come close to him, or he to you.

her wishes as much as we respected father's rules."

And she continued, "I can never forget the tragedy of my torn silk dress. The first and only silk dress I had. I jumped over a feace that I had been forbidden to cross and tore it from stem to stern. The torm dress meant nothing to father, but the broken rule did. What he could never know was the depth of the heartache over the spoiling of my precious dress. The punishment he administered was nothing compared to the sickening sensation I had set the sight of the torn silk. But mother knew and she comforted me as best she could with the promise of a patch that couldn't be seen, or if that were impossible, a new dress."

There it is, you see, thoughts of childhood inextricably mixed with thoughts of the parents. There it is, the polgnant pain of a childish catastrophe persisting throughout the years coming to light like a red thread woven deep into the warp and woof of a piece of cloth, never quite lost sight of. A faint suggestion of the color is always present in the consciousness of the child now grown to womanhood.

The psychologists tell us that the sciousness of the child now grown to womanhood.

The psychologists tell us that the cast and color of the mind is determined in first youth. A child badly frightened before three years of age never gets from under the shadow of that fear. A child permitted to indulge fits of temper in tender years never gets over the effects of that indulgence. A child taught to make amends for some wrong that he has done goes wrong that he has done goes through life anxious to make amends. A child taught to be happy in spite of adverse conditions for happiness retains that blessed ability throughout life. Some teachers go so far as to say that the single earliest recollection of the individual is the defermining event of his whole thought life. Sensitive plants, they are, these little ones, that quiver at a touch, that fold or unfold as that touch is congenial

In other words, unless you can get the child's viewpoint, which is always at variance with the adult's viewpoint, you cannot come close to him, or he to you.

Two mature women sat recently discussing their childhood when one of them said to the other: "Do you remember the awful shock that came to you when you discovered that your mother was not perfect?" "No," replied the second woman. "I never thought my mother was perfect and if I had father's constant rebukes to her about her leniency with us children would have set me straight. I never thought of her as perfect, but I knew that whatever we did, or didn't do, we could always be sure of her perfect understanding of our plight. We knew that she would laugh merrily at our misdemeanors, while she was reproving us for them. So clever was she in this dual role that we respected her wishes as much as we respected father's rules."

New Relief Burden Thrust On Johnstown by Veterans

Pennsylvania City, With CAPT. J. Hundreds Already Starving, Becomes Headquarters for Retreating "Army."

Johnstown today became official headquarters of the expedition.

Ticless and in shirt sleeves. Captain Doak A. Carter, chief of staff, and R. B. Ellison, national contact officer of the veterans, and their aides whipped preliminaries into shape in the office of Eddie McCloskey, red-headed prize fighter and mayor.

The scattering, tattered veterans who fled yesterday before regular army troops in Washington caught the word to "move to Johnstown."

They came in groups tonight; none of their leaders would venture how many already are here, or are camped in the hills.

"There will be bundreds here tomorrow," they agreed.

Commander Walter W. Waters sent word he will get into Johnstown "within the next day or so."

The disorder in Washington barely had faded when McCloskey and Carter engaged in a long-distance conversation. McCloskey invited the leaders to Johnstown. They accepted.

Tentative plans, they said, are to set up offices in the city, revamp the expedition, send as many of the men back home as possible and then reorganize a new march on Washington.

"No. He would be more liable to make trouble for himself and that might involve Lee. The whole situation is charged with dynamite. I'd like to think that you are clear of it, if there is an explosion."

Ought she to tell Donald Kemp of the week-end trip, ask his advice about going to Haven Beach on Lee's party? He would veto it, she was sure. She had given her word to Lee. She would have to risk it, this time.

NEW YORK, July 29.—(P)—Although trading was less active and net average net gains narrower, bulls still had the better of today's stock market and generated another general expansion in quoted values.

Both shares and bonds met profittaking, particularly in the morning, only to encounter enough new buying to resume their rise. Stocks looked strongest in the rail division, although utilities also ran well. Most industrials were a little more sober, but several specialties received fresh inspiration. The average advance was just a point. Volume totaled 2,101,-874 shares.

Buying of carrier equities appeared predicated on Washington discussions for the granting of loans to railroads to facilitate maintenance and repairs. New York Central, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Delaware & Hudson climbed from nearly 2 to more than 3 points, while Norfolk & Western rose 6 1-2. Rail equipments were strong, especially Locomotive Company shares.

strong, especially Locomotive Company shares.

United States Steel preferred advanced nearly 4 points at the best. The common, with American Can, Westinghouse, DuPont, General Motors, National Biscuit, Eastman and a number of other old-line favorites closed fractionally higher.

American Telephone finished up 2 1-4 at 89 1-4, its top price, which compared with the recent low of 70 1-4. Also in the 2-point class were Consolidated Gas, American Tobacco "B". Allied Chemical, International Business Machines, Peoples Gas and Loew's.

Business Machines, Peoples Gas and Loew's.

The impetus attained by the rise in Wall Street's more recent phases is being attributed partly to buying by trades who had tried unsuccessfully to oppose the trend and who now were trying for a turn. In addition, much was made today of the favorable reserve bank statement, especially the slackening of government security purchases which was taken as evidence of a healthier banking situation.

BATON ROUGE, July 29.—
(A)—A. P. Tugwell, chairman of the Louisiana highway commission, expressed gratification today at progress of negotiations designed to expedite resumption of work on nearly 100 road projects on which construction has been suspended since last winter.

The highway commission has suspended since last winter.

The highway commission has been conferring this week with contractors relative to work resumption on a deferred payment plan, which the commission hopes will make it possible to carry out $11,000,000 of contract obligations with $1,200,000 borrowed from state fiscal agent banks, augmented by federal aid funds.

WASHINGTON-A 13 per washing tun—A 13 per cent gain in exports of cotton cloth from the United States during the first half of this year as compared with the same period in 1931 was reported Friday by the commerce department.

It said the increase was particularly significant because it was made in the face of competition from countries off the gold standard, increased tariffs and generally depleted purposes in power. depleted

The department also said Italy continued to increase by more purchases of United States cotton during May, importing 68,000 bales compared with 53,000 for April and 41,000 in May, 1931.

INDIANAPOLIS—The Stutz
Motor Car Company of America today reported six times as many unfilled orders as it had June 30.
The factory force has been increased 40 per cent during the last three weeks.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN. CHICAGO, July 29 .- (P) - Material setbacks in grain prices today accompanied buyers' shyness following a three-day advance of more than ? cents in wheat. Lowest quotations for wheat were reached just before the close, but a reached just before the close, but a fractional rally ensued at the fast. Bearish factors included refusal of the Liverpool market to follow advances on this side of the Atlantic, and it was asserted European importers were holding off.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1-4 to 1 cent under yesterday's finish; corn 3-8 to 5-8 off, oats at 1-4 decline to 18 advance, and provisions 7 to 15 cents down.

18 advance, and provisions 7 to 15 cents down.

Favorable weather for harvesting and threshing in the American northwest had a contributing hearish effect on wheat.

Buying support for wheat was fairly large on price setbacks. Profittaking sales, however, were brisk on advances, and there was also increased hedging pressure.

Beneficial rains over almost the entire southern half of the corn belt weakened the corn market. Oats prices were steadied by intimations of good export business. The seaboard reported foreign demand for rye.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in hog values.

NEW YORK, July 29 .- (P)-The bond market slowed down momentarily today, but soon resumed the steady climb from which it has not deviated throughout the present month.

Prices followed an irregular trend during the greater part of the session during the greater part of the session with indications that a moderate reaction might be at hand. Attempts to negotiate lower bids, however, ran up against a scarcity of offerings with the result that higher quotations begain to appear in all categories.

The railroads again jumped into the lead, with many low-priced speculative issues gaining from 1 to 3 or more points. Substantial improvement was also recorded by the higher grade loans.

also recorded by the higher grade loans.

The industrials were only a step behind the transportation group in popularity. Various specialties, including the oils, displaying pronounced strength. Bonds of most of the communications companies and some of the power and light corporations attracted an increased following.

The foreign department was spotty. United States government loans eased a trifle, treasury 3 1-8s losing more than a point at one time.

Sales volume declined under that of yesterday, the day's turnover totalling $12,656,000, par value. The average for 60 corporate bonds gained sixtents of a point.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER. NEW YORK, July 29 .- (A)-Keep ing step with the rising trend on the another display of strength under the leadership of utilities.

The day's trading, totaling about 240,000 shares, was 20,000 shares be-low that of Thursday, but measured by recent volume it was a decidedly active market.

Utilities forged to the front early in the session and their buoyant tone served to impart solid strength to the general market. Electric Bond and Share issues rose sharply to new high levels under heavy trading. Some utility stocks having narrow markets advanced 5 to 10 points, due to scarcity of offerings. This was true of such issues as American Gas & Electric preferred, and Columbia Gas & Electric preferred, and Columbia Gas & Electric convertible preferred.

The specialty group recorded a large number of sharp advances topped by a 110 per cent jump in Babcock & Wilcox, 4 points in Great Atlantic & Pacific, 3 in Singer Manufacturing and 2 in Eureka Pipe.

Oils held their recent advances fairly well, although they were less active than in recent sessions. Mining and other groups showed a tendency to irregularity, but gains predominated. Utilities forged to the front early

NEW YORK, July 29 .- (A)-The principal gains in industry and trade last week were largely in sentiment, dence that the smaller factories were getting on a profit-making basis, and fair stability of live stock prices at higher levels. The showing of retail trade, this review said, continues comparatively the best of any line.

Dun's said that week's developments brought considerable encouragement to practically every branch of commercial activity. hot weather having helped retailers sell large quantities of seasonal merchandise. Demand for supplies in agricultural districts, caused by early harvests, is shortening the summer lull in merchandise distribution, this review asserted. The textile situation has taken a turn for the better and several thousand idle textile workers were recalled to the mills during the week. The review also said a better sentiment prevailed in wholesale markets.

last week were largely in sentiment, but retail activity continued to make a fair showing, and business interests generally registered more optimism than for some time, the weekly mercantile reviews said today.

Bradstreet reported that the better feeling was based on expectation that the enlarged powers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would soon show active effects, the light stock of merchandise, some evidence that the smaller factories were getting on a profit-making basis, and

WASHINGTON, July 29.—(AP)—A general advance of 5 points in the level of farm prices during the month ended July 15, was reported today by the department of agriculture.

The July 15 farm price index compiled by the bureau of agricultural economics stood at 57 per cent of the pre-war average, the gain being the largest recorded since July, 1929.

The July 15 index was 22 points below that of a year ago and less than one-half of the average of July

Highlights of Wall Street

RY CHARLES W. STORM, Editor, the News Service of Wall Street.

NEW YORK, July 29.—One of the chief reasons for further improvement in share prices was a report from Washington that administration officials and members of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had been conferring relative to lending the common carriers funds to expend for repairs and maintenance.

As this would help the steel industry the report found reflection in increased activity during the afternoon in United States Steel common stock which got up to a new high level for the recovery.

The stock market ignored a slight reaction in the price of wheat. Other commodity prices, however, continued firm.

Dies, who said he was employed by Wendel for 25 years as rent collector and secretary, also testified Wendel did not leave New York state between 1889 and 1912, which conflicted with Morris' claim that his asserted father had visited him in Scotland during that period.

Another point in Morris' story, that he and Wendel visited Miss Wendel in March, 1907, and were ordered out of her Fifth avenue home, likewise was disputed by Diez. The witness said Miss Wendel left for Europe in February, 1907, and remained abroad until July.

NEW YORK, July 29.—(P)—A systematic attack was begun today upon the story of Thomas Patrick Morris that he is a nephew of the late Ella V. Von E. Wendel and entitled to a large share of her estate, estimates of which have ranged from $30,000,000 upwards.

William Diez testified the documents presented by Morris in support of his claim were not in the handwriting of John Gottlieb Wendel, brother of the wealthy spinster. Morris says Wendel was his father.

The documents included a will purporting to make Morris the sole heir to Wendel's estate and a letter in which Wendel purports to reveal himself as Morris' father by a secret marriage.

Diez, who said he was employed by Wendel for 25 years as rent collector and secretary, also testified Wendel and 1912, which conflicted with Morris' claim that his asserted father had visited him in Scotland during that period.
